Future Governance Forum Environmental Policy

Introduction

At The Future Governance Forum (FGF) we believe that effective governance for the 21st century must have environmental sustainability at its core. As an organisation dedicated to shaping a comprehensive new operating model for the way the country works, we aim to ensure that environmental sustainability is integrated into all aspects of policy development and implementation and into our own internal business operations.

Our Environmental Commitment

The Future Governance Forum is committed to minimising its carbon footprint. We believe that every employee has a responsibility to contribute to that goal.

Environmental Action

We take active steps to keep abreast of emerging challenges and best practice. We minimise waste, use digital communications and offer virtual or hybrid options to join our events wherever possible. Where travel is necessary we aim to use sustainable transport options. We are committed to sustainable procurement and expect our suppliers and contractors to demonstrate their commitment to sustainability.

Environmental considerations are integral to all our workstreams and contracts. We facilitate cross-sector dialogue on environmental challenges, building networks that connect environmental expertise with policy practitioners at all levels. Through our publications, events and collaborations, we share insights on effective environmental governance approaches and highlight successful implementation strategies.
